Historical Background

The college of Nursing Sciences was established in 2011 as a natural extension of the school of Nursing at the Upper Nile University. It was amalgamated into the College of Medicine and Health Sciences – University of Bahri after the session of South Sudan. It has become an independent body since 2013 as College of Nursing Science. The College offers a Bachelor Nursing degree in four years.

The College has embarked upon optimistic program aiming at renewing the curriculum, developing Nursing services and maintaining concurrency with the recent technologies in Nursing.

The ultimate target is to create progressive Nursing job at all health levels (primary, secondary and tertiary) in collaboration with the related local, regional and international organizations including World Health Organization (WHO).
